

Common Questions & FAQs

1. What levels of play does PA Classics offer?

FUTURES: We offer a Futures Program that is for players 3-7 years of age. This program is designed to introduce the game of soccer to kids with a fun environment conducive to learning. After 7 years of age, players then either move into our Recreational Program, United Program or into our Travel Program.

RECREATIONAL: Our Recreational Program is called Penn Legacy Rec. This program is for players 8-18 years of age who love the game and want to keep playing, but do not want the commitment and/or competitive level that comes with the Travel Program.

UNITED: The United Program is a good way for players currently playing recreational soccer to slowly get involved at the travel level. PA Classics United teams will participate in both a Fall and a Spring Travel League, a Fall and a Spring event, and practice 2 nights a week. Teams will be coached by a parent volunteer; however, each team will have 4-6 sessions run in Fall and Spring with one of our paid staff. Each parent volunteer will have support from the PA Classics United Director of Coaching, Clark Habecker.

TRAVEL: Our Travel Program has multiple levels. The levels are based on an individual's ability compared to other players of the same age within the club. The different levels also have different levels of commitments both financially and time wise. Our Travel Program levels are MLS Next, Girls Academy, NAL, Academy, Elite and Premier. MLS Next and Girls Academy (U13-U19) and Academy (U8-U12) are the highest level of travel we offer and Premier is the lowest level of travel we offer. All of these levels are provided with professional paid coaches.

At all of our levels, travel teams will compete at the highest level that their team is able to participate in. Once our Boys Academy teams turn U13, they then participate in the MLS Next league which is the highest level of soccer offered for youth players in the United States. There are only 3 clubs in the state that have this status for boys: U13-U19. Those clubs are PA Classics, FC Delco and the Philadelphia Union. Once our Girls Academy teams turn U13, they then participate in the Girls Academy league. There are only 2 clubs in Central PA that have this status for girls: U13-U19. Those clubs are PA Classics and Keystone FC.

2. How many tournaments will we participate in?

Please refer to the cost structure as number of tournaments will vary per age group and level.

3. How far away are most tournaments?

One of the benefits that PA Classics has been able to bring to Central PA is our ability to host many events. This allows our PA Classics teams and other clubs in Central PA to attend quality tournaments at our complex which will save on travel costs. Depending on your age group, you can expect to attend 3-4 events at our fields. Depending on your age group, that leaves 2-4 events that would be outside of Lancaster County. Typical events would be in Harrisburg, Philadelphia, Maryland or New Jersey. The U16-U19 age group may do 2-3 events that require hotel stays in New Jersey or Virginia. These events are attended to try and gain college exposure for players. MLS Next and Girls Academy will attend 2-3 national events as required by the league. The information above is just general guidelines as to what to expect. Specific questions can be asked of your coach before you commit to a particular team.

4. Is my child allowed to play middle school and high school soccer?

NAL, Elite, Premier and Girls Academy team players are allowed to play middle school and high school soccer. During the middle school ages, you will also have club ball during your middle school season, so you would just need to communicate with your coach on certain conflicts you may have due to the middle school season. There is no programming during the high school season for NAL, Elite and Premier teams, so players are able to concentrate on high school ball during the Fall and then begin PA Classics immediately after the high school season.

Boys Academy players U13 and older are not allowed to play middle school or high school soccer. These are the rules of the MLS Next league. These are not PA Classics rules, but we do follow the rules handed down from MLS Next.

5. Is my child allowed to play other sports in high school or middle school?

Yes, NAL Elite and Premier team players are allowed to play other sports. Each family needs to consider whether they are putting too much on their child's plate, but we do not have a rule against doing other sports. You will need to communicate with your PA Classics coach as to what your conflicts are and what your coach's expectations are; but with good communication, it is possible to play other sports. U13 and older MLS Next players are allowed to play winter sports since this is a bit of a down time for the MLS Next teams. U13 and older MLS Next and Girls Academy players are not allowed to play Spring sports. There simply is not enough time to do both.

6. It seems that PA Classics is more expensive than other clubs in Central PA? We want to play, but are not sure we can afford it.

Yes, it does cost money to play at a high-level club and most high-level clubs in Central PA have similar fee structures. At PA Classics, we provide exceptional facilities including our own grass and turf fields; experienced, professional coaches; and multiple tournament entry fees. When comparing soccer club fees, we would recommend that you make sure you compare facilities, coaching, number of tournaments and how much training your child will receive for the cost.

7. Do you offer financial assistance?

Yes, we do offer financial assistance. We do not want money to stop a family from participating with the club. Our assistance is not based on how good a player your child is. It is based on whether you need the assistance financially. So, if you are in a situation where you simply don't have the funds to participate, then you just need to contact us about it before committing to a team. Contact Steve Klein with any financial assistance needs at steve@paclassics.org.

8. Does PA Classics use team managers?

We do not use team managers for a variety of reasons. We feel that if the coach is being paid, then he or she should be able to handle the communication for the team. Not using team managers also keeps politics out of team dynamics. If a parent is doing the coach's organizational work, then it is much harder for a coach to be objective when it comes to playing time for that player and ultimately team selection. We just feel that a team operates the best when you have a coach that is on top of things and is engaged with the running of a team.

9. Is it true that you rotate coaches with teams every couple of years?

Yes, we typically rotate coaches with a team every 2-3 years. We rotate coaches because we feel that kids need to experience different coaches. All coaches have different styles of play, drills and communication. Players may not continue to be challenged and energized if a player has the same coach for their whole youth career. Players need fresh starts with new and different coaches as new coaches may see qualities in a player that a previous coach may not see. It is true that for some players it is comfortable to keep the same coach for 5 and 6 years, but that doesn't mean that it is in their best interest. Players are going to get new coaches in high school and in college, so they need to be prepared and learn to work with and adjust to different styles and personalities.
